SOCIAL CONTRIBUTIONS

In addition to income tax, France levies so-called social contributions totalling 17.2% on unearned income. Non residents pay this on French source rents and gains on property sales.

PAYROLL TAXES

Under the French system both employees and employers must pay substantial contributions to the social security and pension authorities calculated on the basis of monthly salary slips. By way of example:

Gross annual salary	Employee deductions	Employer contributions
€ 20,000	24%	22%
€ 50,000	23%	37%
€ 100,000	21%	43%

The employer contributions are in addition to the employee's deductions.

Payment of income tax at source (French P.A.Y.E. system)

With effect from 1 January 2019 almost all sources of income are subject to deduction of income tax at source. Employers now have to deduct income tax on monthly payslips of employees. Self-employed taxpayers and rental landlords suffer direct debits to their bank accounts. The effect of this change is that taxes are paid on a current year basis, as opposed to one year in arrears under the old system.

MICRO-ENTREPRENEUR (FORMERLY AUTO-ENTREPRENEUR)

Start-up businesses may opt for this regime whereby they pay income tax and social security contributions based on a fixed % of their actual sale receipts. The system precludes the making of tax losses for set off against future profits. Micro-entrepreneurs are not liable to VAT unless turnover exceeds € 82,800 (Goods) or € 33,200 (Liberal professions)
